Get Ready for Fun At Lions Carnival

Kiddie rides, games, homemade ice cream, hamburgers and a soggy dunking board will be featured during the Second Annual Lions Club Carnival on the north and east sides of the square Friday and Saturday.

Proceeds of the carnival will go toward lighting and equipping the softball diamond in the city park. Other civic organizations have been invited to participate in the carnival, with the requirement that any money made must go to a worthy cause.

Some 15 booths are planned for the carnival and erection of them will begin Monday night. Both the city and the county have given permission for the use of the square and for the parking area needed on the north and east sides of the square.

The carnival will officially open Friday night. It will also be open all Saturday afternoon and Saturday night. Election results will be posted Saturday night on The Canyon News blackboard so that no one will miss the outcome of the election.

F. F. A. Boys at State Convention

A delegation of six boys, all members of the Canyon Future Farmers of America left July 24 to attend the state FFA convention in Dallas July 25-27. Convention headquarters will be at the new Statler-Hilton Hotel.

The boys will be headed by Foster Parker, state vice president, and Jack Campbell, area Star Farmer. G. D. Inman, one of the local chapter advisers, accompanied them.

Other boys who made the trip from Canyon include Carroll Wright, Dewayne Massey, Michael Hood and George Kuehler.

Four boys from Canyon will receive the State Farmer Degree in Future Farmer work, bringing to a total of 31 the number of boys to receive this degree from the Canyon chapter in the past 10 years.

Receiving the degree this year are Jack Campbell, Meade Humphries, Jerome Edwards and Arvie Marshall. The application of Foster Parker for the American Farmer Degree was approved by the state committee at the recent (Con't. on Back Page, Section 1)

Bank Day Grows, $135 Saturday

Helen Fern Hood was not in a participating store Saturday to win the Bank Day money, so some lucky person may win $135 this Saturday. A $5 consolation check was mailed to Miss Hood.

It is not necessary to purchase anything in order to register or win but the winner must be in one of the stores at 3 p. m. in order to receive the money.

Fire Prevention Posters Exhibited

An exhibit of prize-winning school fire prevention posters, sponsored by the state board of insurance commissioners, is on display this week in the corridors of the Administration Building at West Texas State College.

The posters are shown annually at the college and includes school children's works awarded state prizes, along with other selected posters for the exhibit.

An exhibit of 550 current juvenile books, appealing to children from the kindergarten through high school, is on display in the West Texas State College library. Both fiction and non-fiction are represented.

The display will remain in the library foyer during the fourth annual Reading Conference, which opens Monday at WT. The exhibit is arranged according to school grades, and a complete annotated catalogue of the works is available.

Books on exhibit is a cooperative program of the country's leading publishers. The 550 books fall under some 31 different subject heads, including adventure, aeronautics, animals, the arts, biography, careers, classics, conservation, exploration, fairy tales and folklore, fiction, foreign lands, games and parties, geography, history and many others.

Taylor & Sons League Leaders

Two doubleheader ball games were played this week in the Junior Softball League.

Taylor & Sons were still the leaders in the league after the two doubleheader games were played.

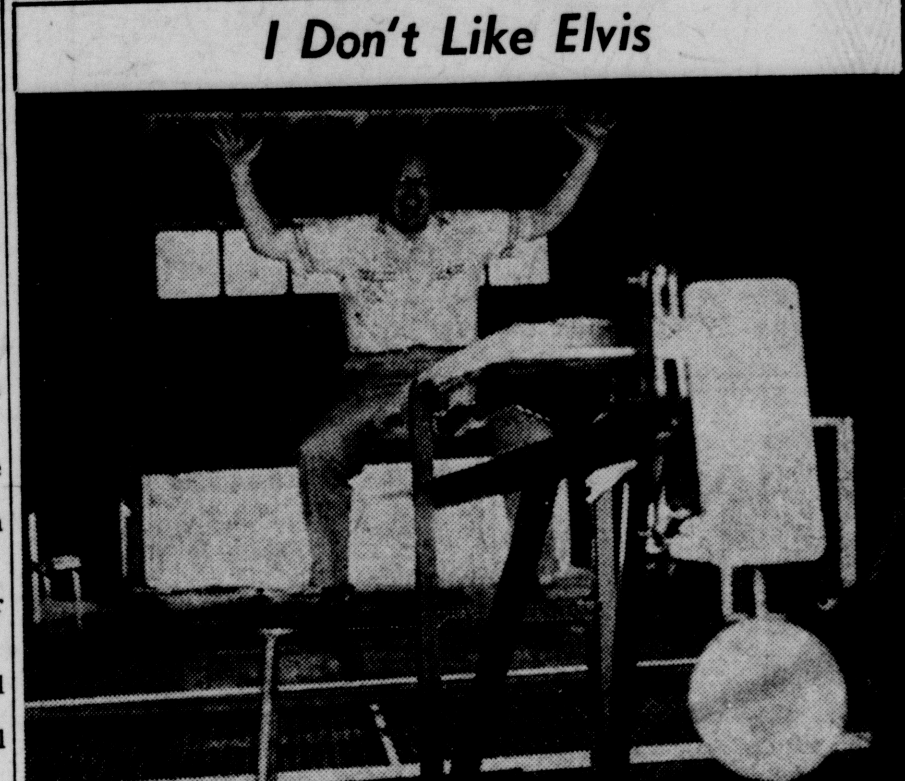

In the first game Thursday night, Jim Glenn stole home with two away in the bottom of the fifth to break the tie and give Bellah's a 14-13 victory over Cooper's.

Jimmy Harding homered in the second and third innings to lead the losers in hitting. Jim Glenn and Tom Platt lead the winners with three for four and two for three respectively.

Others who hit safely in the game were Camp, Reynolds, J. Smyrl, Hughes, Keller, P. Hawkins and Breitling.

In the nighttime on Thursday, Sonny Pitt hit a bases-loaded home run in the first inning to help give Taylor & Sons a 13-6 victory over Sternberg's. Taylor & Sons collected 14 hits off Ira Bergan while the losers hit safely six times off Pitt.

For Sternberg's, Devin hit one for five, S. Moore hit one (Con't. on Back Page, Section 1)

Elvis Presley fans can vent their ire Saturday afternoon by trying to dunk Bill Cherry at the Lions Club Carnival. The carnival will be set up on the square Friday night and Saturday afternoon and night. The dunking board will be one of the features of the carnival, with various townspeople as targets.

Fourth Annual Reading Conference Opens Three-Day Session Monday

Three men who are able manipulators of the written and spoken word will be speakers and consultants for the fourth annual Reading Conference which opens Monday at West Texas State College.

They are Dr. Paul McKee, author and professor at Colorado State College of Education; Dr. Arno Jewett, language arts specialist with the United States Office of Education; and Bill Martin Jr., lecturer and storyteller of St. Louis.

The three, along with Mrs. Evelyn Thompson, University of Houston department of elementary education chairman, will speak daily during the four-day meeting sponsored by the Texas Association for the Improvement of Reading.

The four-day conference opens Monday at 8 a. m. with registration in the Administration Building at WT. Some 350 West Texas area teachers and public school administrators are expected to attend the daily sessions.

A conference fee of $10, or $3 a day, is charged. Arrangements have been made by Dr. Ruth Lowes, WT professor of education, and a program committee of area teachers.

Daily general sessions, when each speaker will appear, will be followed by group meetings and question-and-answer periods. Presiding at the opening session will be Mrs. Jewel Askew of Houston, state president of T.A.I.R.

Dr. McKee is known to many teachers of the region through his language and reading textbooks, as well as his college text on reading methods.

After receiving his A.B. degree from Monmouth College, Dr. McKee earned his graduate degrees at the State University of Iowa. Besides teaching in college, Dr. McKee has served in administration and supervision posts in Illinois and Minnesota public schools.

He has served as instructional consultant for city school systems and state departments of education. He has contributed to numerous publications, including the (Con't. on Back Page Section 1)

Ballot Includes Candidates for State, County Offices, Referendum

Democratic voters across Texas will go to the polls Saturday to nominate candidates for all statewide offices and for five county offices. In Randall County, voters will decide on commissioners for Precincts 1 and 3, county tax assessor-collector, sheriff and criminal district attorney as well as for the statewide offices. In addition, the ballots will include candidates for Democratic precinct and county chairmen and three referendum questions.

Voting in the county will take place in 13 precincts instead of the nine precincts with 10 boxes as in previous election years. The four new precincts were created last fall by the county commission in order to take care of the growing population in South Amarillo and in Canyon.

Alby Ann Kuehler Dress Revue Winner

Alby Ann Kuehler was the first place winner in her division in the Randall County Dress Revue which was held Monday, July 23, in the Farm Bureau building. The winning costume was a completely lined light brown dress with matching jacket. Her accessories were green and brown. Miss Kuehler won first in the over-14-year-old division. She will be eligible to compete in the district meet in August.

Deanna Stocker was second place winner in the same group. Her entry was a cotton print school dress.

In the under-14-year-old division, Virginia Friemel took first place with a long torso blue and white checked dress accented with white organdy and white accessories.

Both first place winners received dress lengths for their prizes. Judges of the revue were Barbara Fain, county home demonstration agent of Armstrong County, and Mrs. Dorothea Prowell, assistant home demonstration agent of Deaf Smith County.

Twenty-one girls entered their sewing in the revue in three different groups. The school dress division was the most popular with 15 costumes entered. The skirt and blouse division had three entries while the special occasion group had only two.

The youngest members, Peggy Cranmer and Laura Plank, won blue ribbons for their dresses. They are both nine years old.

Special music during the revue was furnished by Phylis Beckman, Peggy Albracht and Anita Fischbacher.

Absentee Voting Heavy in County

Eighty-eight absentee ballots for the July 28 Democratic Primary had been issued in Canyon and over 100 had been issued in South Amarillo late Tuesday afternoon. The South Amarillo office reported a last minute rush there around 5 p. m.

Absentee voting has been heavier this year than in any previous primary with the exception of the general primary. Voters had until midnight Tuesday to complete their voting and the count should have been over the 200 mark by then.

Pvt. Harold Neal, who has been stationed at Chaffey, Ark., is home on a two weeks leave visiting his wife and baby. After his visit he will report to Ft. Hood for further training.

Specialist Second Class Harold E. Root left Wednesday morning for the Army Aviation Center at Fort Rucker, Ala., after a visit with his family, the Gene Roots.

Mrs. J. A. Woodfin is spending the rest of the summer with her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Hud Prichard.

Those who live west of the highway in the area included in the old precinct will vote at the American Legion Hall in downtown Canyon.

A list of the polling places for each precinct is printed elsewhere in the paper.

Apache Fire Dance

Geronimo Apaches will dance the weird, fascinating fire dance, also known as the mountain spirit dance, at the historical pageant, "Peace Pipe on the Prairie," during the Palo Duro Indian Ceremonial. The sacred, religious ceremony is danced only after the Indians have performed secret rites.

Ceremony Includes Victory Dance

With the first performance of the Palo Duro Indian Ceremonial just over a month away, members of the Chamber of Commerce have started a drive to sell tickets to everyone in Canyon as soon as possible.

The tickets have been placed in many of the stores in Canyon and in Umbarger, and are also available at the chamber office and from chamber members. The chamber is hoping to pre-sell as many tickets as possible in order to get money for promotion and advertising of the ceremonial.

Among the many dances to be shown at the ceremonial, which will be held in Buffalo Stadium on Sept. 1, 2 and 3, is the victory dance.

Performed by the women of the Plains tribes in honor of their warriors returning to camp victorious over the enemy, the dancers go in a counterclockwise direction with a medium to fast step. The left leg leads in the dance.

During the last great wars of the United States, the Plains Indian women performed this dance to commemorate the defeat and surrender of the Germans and the Japanese. The dance will be performed during the afternoon show on Sept. 3.

Another dance to be performed on the last afternoon is the ruffle dance, also called the hummingbird dance. It begins with the dancers on one knee.

Each dancer shakes his body from head to foot until a certain point is reached in the song, then all rise and complete the dance in a fast rhythm.

Using special songs, the dance is perhaps the hardest dance to perform of all Indian dances. It includes a great deal of action and is faster than even the fast war dance.

The afternoon performances during the three-day celebration will each be different and will include tribal dances and games. The evening performance will be the presentation of the historical pageant.

One of the games to be shown is the arrow throwing contest with a rawhide hoop as a target. A hoop made of wood and bound with rawhide to form small squares across the center is rolled in front of each contestant.

Each contestant is given four tries at the hoop, and hits are scored by a point system. The contestant with the largest number of points is declared the winner.

Although to the untrained ear, many of the chants and rhythms used in Indian dancing sound the same, each dance has a special chant and rhythm. In some cases, such as in war songs, individual chanters have their own words to the chants.

Learning the rhythms and chants is considered as hard as learning to perform the various dances, and chanters specialize in their job and usually do not dance.

Tickets to the ceremonial are $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children under 12. Tickets purchased during the pre-sale period are good for any one performance of the ceremonial.

Be sure to vote Saturday. Even if you haven't been able to make up your mind just which candidate to support in the various races, don't let that stand in the way of your getting to the polls. Think honestly about what you've heard the various candidates say they stand for and maybe something will come to mind.

In Texas, as we all know, the Democratic primary is the chance we have to say what and who we want in our government from the state level down through the county level. Don't pass up your chance to have your say this year. It will be four years before you have another chance to vote for a commissioner in Precincts 1 and 3, a sheriff, a tax assessor-collector and a criminal district attorney.

Be sure to vote Saturday, and take the time, also, to attend the precinct conventions held at the polling places during the day. In this edition of The Canyon News is a list of times for the conventions.

Through fuzzy writing, I left an incorrect impression in the comments I made on the school board's job last week. While discussing the drop in enrollment in art and music in high school and the increase in scientific subjects, I quoted High School Principal James E. Miller as saying the drop in the art and music enrollment might come from the "present emphasis over the nation on scientific subjects."

That statement was followed by another quote: "I think it's over-emphasis." By reading the two statements, the impression is left that Miller thinks there is over-emphasis on scientific subjects, when actually he means that he believes the drop in high school art and music comes from over-emphasis on those subjects in junior high school.

My apologies to the high school principal, and I hope it has caused him no embarrassment. The blame lies entirely on my fuzziness.

You may not be aware of it, but dead crocodiles bite. A witness to that fact is a professor of zoology at the University of Columbia in Bogota. The professor has twice been bitten by "dead" reptiles.

The explanation is that the reptile's nervous system which activates its snout is disconnected from the rest of its nervous system. Therefore, even if a crocodile is killed and you proceed to place your hand in the vicinity of its mouth, the still-alive nervous system controlling the creature's mouth will activate a snap and, perhaps, sever your hand.

Since so many of the readers of The Canyon News are engaged in the business of killing crocodiles, I thought I would mention this item and give the solution—chop a hole in its neck and run a pointed stick into the medulla oblongata after you've killed the rest of the reptile.

Boldly and with extreme pride, billboards announced the coming of "The Greatest Show on Earth." Using the grandest adjectives to tell of the wonders to be seen under the big top, blatant 24-sheet posters whetted the entertainment appetites of young and old alike. There were things to be seen—a vicarious life of adventure, romance, thrills and glory to be lived.

But no more. No, the big top will never come again. The unique smell of strange animals, cotton candy, parching peanuts and dirt-mixed sawdust is gone. The dim murkiness inside the huge canvas tent will not be seen again. No longer will the vacant acres at the edge of town play host to the circus.

The day of the tented circus ended last week when Ringling Bros., Barnum and Bailey Combined Shows closed for the last time in Pittsburgh, Pa. Oh, the circus will come again, but it will play only in Madison Square Garden and in other air-conditioned arenas over the nation. John Ringling North promised that much.

But that's not the circus. There's as much delight in that as there is in watching a performance on television or in a movie. For, how can the clowns climb into the bleachers to thrill children. Where will come the gigantic fear in small hearts as the pretty lady rides by on a ponderous pachyderm that had a smell all its own? The smell has been wafted away by a blower that changes the air every two minutes on schedule.

How can young hearts dream of "running away with the circus" if there are no circus jobs to be had, no elephants that need watering with hundreds of buckets of water carried by hand, no bales of hay that need to be thrown to speckled-neck giraffes and skunk-striped zebras.

No more circus to move in on the railroad just before dawn. No more hours to be spent watching the giant canvas umbrella rise in the air. No more brave, gaudy pennants snapping from the tops of the tall, tall center poles. No more circus, only a vain attempt shown in an air conditioned building.

Labor troubles, bad weather on this year's tour and the rising costs of everything put "The Greatest Show on Earth" down.

Labor troubles—pickets at every stop from the teamsters union and the American Guild of Variety Artists. A deliberate "slowdown" by union members employed by the circus as truckers and tractor operators, the slowdown that caused every performance this year to be late. The slowdown employed by the union to show the circus they could pay a better wage and make more money with an efficient work force. (I'm sorry, I can't understand that line of reasoning.)

Bad weather—muddy grounds threw the show behind schedule in Ohio. A carload of equipment was derailed at Akron and a show had to be cancelled.

Rising costs—we all know about them, they're all around all of us.

But whatever the cause, the circus is gone. Barnum and Bailey as we knew it when we were young is gone. Smaller circuses, King Bros. and Clyde Beatty, gone. Oh, a group of men in Sarasota, Fla., purchased the Clyde Beatty circus when it folded recently, and expect to reopen it Aug. 30 in Albuquerque. If they do, it will be the last big road circus in America, but, "The tented circus as it now exists is, in my opinion, a thing of the past," John Ringling North said.

Keep alive your memories of the circus. Tell your children and your grandchildren of the wonders that once were to behold. Chances are, the circus will live on in memory. A real, live circus may never be seen again.

I think Elvis Presley stinks. If that makes you mad, I'll be on the dunking board at the Lions Club Carnival sometime Saturday afternoon.

This weekend, the Lions Club is running the annual carnival on the square, with the proceeds going to provide lighting and equipment for the softball diamond in the city park. There'll be kiddie rides, games, entertainment, homemade ice cream and hamburgers and a fearsome dunking board. Saturday night, election results will be posted so you won't miss out on how things are going. Come on down and enjoy yourself. You'll be helping Canyon's youth at the same time.—BC

Ticklers

By George

"You must be new on the job!"

Words, like people, are most useful within certain grooves. Given their commonly accepted meanings, they get ideas over quickly.

A word used wrong in a sentence is like a displaced person in society. It has no roots, stands apart from its fellows. Only rarely does a happy word-kind think up a new way to say something that puts the spotlight on a certain word that has never attracted much notice in its everyday meaning. From such inspirations, of course, slogans are born and politicians made famous.

Words were the building blocks of our childhood. In a home where both parents had been school teachers, word games were a regular evening pastime. A day hardly passed that one of us did not challenge another by "pulling the dictionary" on him, and the big old Webster's Unabridged was as dog-eared as Tom Sawyer and Treasure Island.

For that reason, maybe, it usually irks us to hear a word used incorrectly. But one fairly frequent misuse we find delightful. That is the substitution of the verb "wander" for "wonder." We heard it again this week: "The boy wondered off," the speaker said, and immediately he lost us. Our thoughts began to wander—or wonder—about wander and wonder.

"To wander" means "to move about without a fixed course, aim or objective; to take a roundabout or leisurely course." "To wonder" is "to be affected with astonishment; to query in the mind."

Isn't a "wandering" boy usually a "wondering" one? He is led on

Beat Heat with Tempting Salads, Women Suggest Family Favotites

It's summertime when the mercury zooms but also the time when appetites often take a nose-dive. What's the remedy? Lots and lots of cool, tempting salads. Let's make and eat salads!

Oh, the man around the house turns up his nose at "rabbit food" and the children say, "Dad won't. We won't." If that's the case, take a look and taste your salads. If they don't seem to be up to standards, try some of these success secrets:

1. Perk up salads with a tangy dressing.

2. For vegetable salads, rub the salad bowl with a clove of garlic; tear greens instead of cutting, makes them stay crisp longer; toss salad instead of stirring; flute cucumber rings by drawing tines of fork down surface lengthwise all around; use carrot curls; add bits of bacon, cheese or olives.

3. Try new recipes, man-family-tested and approved.

Mrs. Bob Bellah finds that her husband and family prefer tomato and lettuce salad. She makes her mayonnaise dressing. Her recipe:

- 1 egg yolk
- 2 Tbsps. lemon juice
- 1/2 tsp. sugar
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- Paprika
- 1 or 2 drops tabasco
- 1/4 to 1 cup Wesson oil

Mix the seasoning with 1 Tbsp. lemon juice. Add the yolk of egg and beat. Then begin adding oil. When enough oil has been added to make the mixture thick, add the remaining lemon juice and beat gradually.

If a salad can be served to hard-working ranch hands and disappear as fast as the apple pie, that's test enough. Mrs. Fred Marshall finds that ranch hands smile when served this dish using cooked vegetables.

Mixed Vegetable Salad

- 2 cups green peas or asparagus
- 2 cups diced celery
- 2 cups diced beets
- 2 cups lima beans
- 1/2 cup chopped onions or onion juice
- 1/2 cup chopped green pepper or pimiento
- Dash of salt and paprika.

Drain juice from vegetables. Put all ingredients in a salad bowl.

Marinate lightly with French dressing. Cover and let stand 1 to 2 hours.

For a good summer meal for city folks, Mrs. Marshall suggests serving this salad with cheese rolls and baked custard for dessert.

Cheese Rolls

- 2 cups flour
  - 3 tsps. baking powder
  - 1 tsp. salt
  - 4 Tbsps. shortening
  - 1/2 cup milk
  - 1/2 cup grated cheese
- Mix and sift dry ingredients, work in fat and cheese quickly with fork or dough blender. Add milk all at once to make a soft dough, turn out on lightly floured board. Knead a few seconds and then roll to 1/2 inch thickness. Cut and bake in a hot oven (450 degrees F.) until brown.

A congealed grape juice salad makes a hit with the Rev. Strauss Atkinson, Mayla and Lynn. To make this salad, Mrs. Atkinson uses:

- 3 boxes cherry jello
- 1 quart grape juice
- 1 No. 3 can spiced grapes
- 1 No. 3 can crushed pineapple
- 3 cups whipped cream
- 2 pkgs. sour cream or cream cheese

Dissolve jello in 6 cups of liquid (juice drained from fruit, grape juice and water). Chill until slightly congealed. Add fruit, whipped cream or cream cheese and nuts if desired. Put in mold and congeal. This makes a large salad sufficient for about 20 people.

Mrs. Atkinson often makes it for socials or when having company for dinner.

Murray Boston likes this salad.

Frosted Lime Walnut Salad

- 1 pkg. lime jello
- 1 cup hot water
- 1 No. 2 crushed pineapple
- 1 cup small curd cottage cheese
- 1/2 cup celery
- 1/2 cup broken walnuts
- 1 Tbsp. pimientos or green pepper
- 1 small pkg. Philadelphia cream cheese.

Dissolve jello in hot water. Let congeal until sirupy. Add rest of ingredients and chill. Whip cream and cheese. Thin with milk until spreading consistency. She often serves this salad without the walnuts.

A hearty potato salad is Bill Lee's favorite. To make it, Mrs. Lee uses three cups of boiled, cubed potatoes, 3 boiled eggs, 3 Tbsps. chopped onion, 1/2 cup diced celery and enough salad dressing to make the mixture moist. Salt and pepper to taste.

She mashes the eggs, adds seasonings, dressing and all ingredients except potatoes and mixes in a bowl. When mixed, she adds this to the potatoes. Chill for about one-half a day.

If watching calories, this recipe is good says Mrs. R. E. Marshall.

Combine endive, lettuce, cucumber, carrots, celery, radishes, a small amount of onion. Season with salt and just a touch of bacon drippings. Serve chilled.

Many women in Canyon say they never spend much time on salads and that the simple salads are their best bet. The R. D. Wheelock family enjoys an orange jello salad with added pineapple and grated carrots. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Juniper enjoy a pear salad served with rouffert cheese. Mrs. W. J. Wooten Jr. says although the members of her family are not salad lovers, a mixed vegetable salad with added olives is a favorite. Thousand-island dressing is tops with Joyce.

When company comes, Mrs. Kenneth McDouall of Walla Walla, Wash., a former resident of Canyon, likes to use a jello-cube salad. It calls for:

- 2 pkgs. congealed and diced jello (one strawberry and one lime for color)
- 18 marshmallows cut up. If using miniature marshmallows, she uses 4 miniatures to 1

- large marshmallow.
- 1/2 pint cream whipped
- 1 pint dry cottage cheese
- 1 can No. 2 drained pineapple chunks

Combine cottage cheese, pineapple chunks, cream and marshmallows and set in refrigerator to mellow. Add the jello cubes when ready to serve. Stir gently in order not to break the cubes. Serve on a lettuce leaf with salty wafers or crackers.

If you have some cranberries in the freezer, try this original recipe from Mrs. J. D. Barker.

- 2 cups ground cranberries
  - 1 apple grated
  - 1 1/2 cups sugar
- Let stand 1 hour. Drain then heat. Combine juice with 1 pkg. apple jello (she likes to add 2 Tbsps. vinegar and 1/2 tsp. salt to jello). For a mold she adds 1 envelope of gelatin moistened in 2 Tbsps. water. Cool. Whip 1/2 cup cream and add 1/2 cup salad dressing. Add to cooled jello mix. Cut up 2 cups celery, 2 cups marshmallows. Combine all with 1 cup cut pecans. Chill.

New South Amarillo Voting Precincts

Three new voting precincts for South Amarillo were established last fall by the Randall County commissioners. The map shows the boundaries and polling places for each of the precincts. Previously, all of South Amarillo was in Precinct 9, and two boxes for voting were used. Another new precinct, No. 13, was established in Canyon for all of old Precinct 1 that lies east of Highway 87.

Reunions. Rodeos. Fishing trips. From now until school starts, vacationing Texans will take to the highways by the thousands.

They are likely to find the roads more crowded than at any time in the state's history. From year to year, total traffic volume has climbed steadily. Highway Department surveys show. In addition, vacation months bring a steep jump.

August especially is a headache for the Department of Public Safety. Accident rates climb sharply. During the past five years August accident rates have been from 3 to 27 per cent higher than in July.

"People try to over-drive on a long vacation trip," says Asst. Chief C. G. Connor of the Texas Highway Patrol. "Fatigue is a particular problem. Speed is another."

They can't do much about people who drive when they're too tired, Connor admits. But something can and has been done about speed. "Installation of radar detection devices has had a tremendous impact on driving practices," said Connor.

Studies made before and after radar use was begun on state and federal highways in November, 1954, show: (1) excessive speeding dropped from 21 to 15 per cent, (2) accidents dropped 3.4 per cent and (3) deaths dropped 1.9 per cent.

During the same period accidents on the non-radar-patrolled stretches—farm to market roads, city streets, etc.—climbed 13 per cent. A similar increase could have been expected on the state and federal highways, Connor believes, especially since total mileage increased also—nearly 5 per cent.

Had normal trends continued, 181 more lives would have been lost in 1955.

Operation Alert Scheduled

Would Texans know what to do if atomic bombs fell? To find out, a full-scale drill will be held July 20.

Five key areas—Houston, El Paso, Austin, Waco and the Fort Worth-Dallas area—will be assumed hit by bombs between 11 a. m. and 1:30 p. m. that day.

Smaller towns and rural areas also will participate in Operation Alert. Many have been designated as reception centers for evacuees from cities. State Civil Defense and Disaster Relief Headquarters in Austin has asked all mayors, county judges and other local civil defense officials to cooperate.

Strategic industrial centers, such as Beaumont-Port Arthur, will practice vacating plants and schools. Military bases will test their full-scale emergency measures.

Purpose of the drill is to show up any flaws in the plan whereby federal, state and local officials and trained volunteers would cooperate to cope with a major catastrophe.

Nationally, Operation Alert will presume 52 cities bombed. FCC has ordered all radio and TV stations off the air at 3:10 p. m. July 20. Special civil defense frequencies, 640 and 1240, will be used for test broadcasts of disaster instructions.

Physical Ed Teachers Reassured
Physical education teachers won't be out of jobs if proposed new high school graduation requirements are adopted.

Commissioner of Education J. W. Edgar clarified the plan for alarmed teachers. Physical education and health courses still are required by state law, he said.

A State Board of Education study committee recommended they no longer be counted among the 16 units required for graduation. Committee suggestions were part of an overall effort to strengthen high school curricula academically, especially in scientific studies.

Vaccine for Adults Seen Soon
Texans over 20 may be able to get polio vaccinations within "a month or two."

But, said State Health Department officials, this is still "purely speculative." Actual timing will depend on when the vaccine supply exceeds that needed for youngsters and expectant mothers.

In Texas, polio takes its heaviest toll among tots under four years old. They have 51.2 per cent of all cases, 69.1 per cent of paralytic cases. Persons over 20 account for only 17.4 per cent of total incidence, 6.8 per cent of paralytic cases.

Forty-one new cases were reported in the state last week, bringing the '56 total to 440.

Worse and More of It

More and more Texans have less and less water. In its monthly report, the State Water Board listed these gloomy details:

Texas reservoirs were down 17 per cent, and observation wells and springs were at all-time lows. Storage in Trinity River basin lakes was at 27 per cent of capacity; in Red River lakes, 55 per cent; in Lake Texoma, 51 per cent. Famous Comal Springs near New Braunfels ceased to flow for the first time in history.

Ground water levels, below average in almost all areas, hit record lows in four areas. No general area of the state could claim normal rainfall. Statewide precipitation was 46 per cent of normal.

Short Snorts

Texans had approximately 7 million acres of cotton under cultivation as of July 1, reported the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture. This was one per cent less than 1955, 20 per cent less than the 10-year average.

Though the primary election is not until July 28, thousands of Texans already have had their say on who goes into office next year.

Absentee balloting began July 9, continues through July 24.

Texas will get a 22 per cent increase this year in funds for its public school lunch program, announced the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture.

NEWS LETTER

FROM CONGRESSMAN WALTER ROGERS
OF THE 18TH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT

Air Safety

The recent, tragic crash in the Grand Canyon of two of our largest commercial airliners has created a deafening demand for immediate action in the solution of air traffic problems. The long, smoldering debate as to what, if anything, should be done with reference to additional safety precautions in air travel, has now broken into a searing flame with which engulfed these two giant airliners when they crashed in the Grand Canyon.

The many, many problems incident to present day air operations were forcibly brought to bear by the evidence and testimony presented to the investigating Congressional subcommittee of which I am a member. Las Vegas, Nev., was chosen as the site of the preliminary hearings because it was believed to be more accessible to the officials, interested parties and witnesses.

Our committee left Washington Friday afternoon about 2 o'clock Eastern Standard Time and arrived at Las Vegas at 10:45 p. m. Pacific Standard Time, which would have been 1:45 a. m. Eastern Standard Time. Our work started the next morning shortly after 8 o'clock in making arrangements for the hearing.

The hearings officially started at 10 a. m. and continued without interruption, except for a short interlude for lunch, until 8 p. m. The next morning we arose at 4 a. m. and started for the Canyon in a 2-motored plane.

As we arrived at the Grand Canyon Airport the last group of rubber bags containing the remains of the victims were arriving from the Canyon by helicopter. Shortly thereafter we departed for the Canyon by helicopter. About 4 hours later we departed for Washington and arrived at 1 a. m. Monday morning.

At the Saturday morning hearing we heard two witnesses in public session and then went into executive session. The witnesses were very cooperative. A great deal of very pertinent and important information was gathered, some of which I cannot reveal to you because it was taken in executive session and will be released at a subsequent date when the hearings are completed. However, there are some very interesting facts that I can tell you without violating the rules.

Facts developed included the following:

The two 4-motored planes left the same airport at Los Angeles within 3 minutes of each other. One plane was slightly faster than the other. This plane was the last to leave. Their original routes were in different directions on controlled airways.

However, both planes were authorized to turn off of controlled airways shortly after leaving Los Angeles, and to strike out across the country for their destinations. After this turn-off both planes would be flying parallel for some distance and then their courses would converge approximately over the Painted Desert.

Both planes were cleared from Los Angeles to fly I.F.R. (Instrument Flight Rules). This means that the plane could be flown on instruments at the altitude authorized, in controlled areas. One plane was cleared to fly at 21,000 feet, the other at 19,000 feet. Shortly after departure the 19,000 foot plane requested changes of altitude which finally resulted in his being authorized to fly V.F.R. at 1,000 feet on top of the overcast. (V.F.R. means Visual Flight Rules).

Project No. TEX-41-CH-43 (DS) WEST TEXAS STATE TEACHER'S COLLEGE CANYON, TEXAS

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

Sealed proposal addressed to THE BOARD OF REGENTS OF THE STATE TEACHERS' COLLEGES for the construction of A Girls' Dormitory, Project No. TEX-41-CH-43 (DS) for WEST TEXAS STATE TEACHER'S COLLEGE, CANYON, TEXAS, hereinafter called "Owner" in accordance with plans, specifications and contract documents, which were prepared by and may be obtained from Macon O. Carder, Architect, will be received at the office of JAMES P. CORNETTE, PRESIDENT OF WEST TEXAS STATE TEACHER'S COLLEGE in CANYON, TEXAS, until 2 P. M. o'clock August 2, 1956, and then publicly opened and read aloud. Any bid received after closing time will be returned unopened.

A cashier's check, certified check, or acceptable bidders' bond payable to the Owner in an amount not less than 5% of the largest possible total for the bid submitted including the consideration of additive alternates must accompany each bid as a guarantee that, if awarded the contract, the bidder will promptly enter into a contract and execute such bonds as may be required.

Attention is called to the fact that the rates of pay for labor and mechanics engaged in the construction of the project will be not less than the prevailing local wage rates for similar work as determined by THE BOARD OF REGENTS OF THE STATE TEACHERS' COLLEGES and approved by the Housing and Home Finance Administrator, and further in full compliance with any state wage law that may be applicable.

The Owner reserves the right to reject any or all bids and to waive any or all formalities. Plans and specifications may be examined without charge in the office of Macon O. Carder, Architect, located at 419 Fisk Building, Amarillo, Texas, and may be prepared upon a deposit of $50.00 as a guarantee for the safe return of the plans and specifications, the full amount of which will be repaid upon the return of plans and specifications within five days after receipt of bids.

All bids may be held 30 days unless sooner returned by the Owner.

CLAUDE ISBELL, EXECUTIVE SECRETARY, BOARD OF REGENTS OF THE STATE TEACHERS' COLLEGES 1512

Shortly after this authority was granted a report from this plane indicated that he was flying at 21,000 feet. At that time he was flying at the same altitude as the other plane and on a parallel course but was quite a number of miles north of the other plane.

These facts, however, would not indicate the definite conclusion that both planes continued to fly at the same altitude. The reason being that when they left the controlled airways they could fly at any altitude they might desire, so long as they maintained their authorized altitudes when crossing or traveling along controlled air areas and airways.

The evidence is about as conclusive as there could be that there was a collision so it must be concluded that the two airplanes did get at the same altitude at some point. It is, of course, impossible to tell at what altitude they were flying just prior to the collision. The point of wreckage was about 25 miles north of the route that one airliner would have been expected to fly.

It was almost directly on the route that the other was flying. The wreckage was about 20 miles west of where the evidence would indicate that the planes would have been in the absence of a collision. This poses a rather difficult problem because if the planes had been flying at 21,000 feet and had been 20 miles east of the point of the wreckage, it would be almost inconceivable to me for them to have fallen in the place where the wreckage was found.

It would have meant that the planes falling downward 4 miles would have been blown or glided some 20 miles horizontally. I just do not believe that such could have happened.

In addition, it would have been necessary for the planes after having been blown or glided horizontally 20 miles to have reached a certain point and then dropped straight down. It would be conceivable that such a situation could have existed with regard to one plane but for both planes to have followed such a course is difficult to believe.

The wreckage of both planes was within a distance of a mile and a half. One was in the bottom of the Canyon about 4,000 feet from the top. The other was on a shelf about half way up the precipice.

This leaves in my mind the big question among many of "Where were the planes when they collided?" and "Why were they at such points?" If the answers to these questions can be found, we will know whether or not any present rules were being violated. If no present rules were being violated, then some of the present rules must be changed and more added.

A new instructor in speech will join the West Texas State College faculty in September, according to President James P. Cornette. He is Cleburne L. Farr, a Texan who has been working toward his doctorate at the State University of Iowa.

Born in Cleburne, Texas, where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Farr, still live, Farr was graduated from high school there. He worked in San Antonio until 1942, when he entered the Air Force.

Following discharge from the service, Farr attended San Antonio College and was granted his B.S. and M.A. degrees from Southwest Texas State Teachers College.

Farr was awarded a graduate assistantship at the State University of Iowa, where he has worked toward a Ph.D. degree in speech. He has completed course work and has begun his dissertation, to be a study of the speaking of Robert M. Hutchins, former chancellor of the University of Chicago.

Married, he and Mrs. Farr have two children, Russell Martin, 10, and Andrea Gail, 7.

Artho Infant Buried July 16

Funeral mass for Daniel Gene Artho, 21-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Elroy Artho, was said July 16 in St. Mary's Church in Urmberger by Father Prosper, O. S. B.

Burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery in Urmberger. The infant suffocated in his home July 14 when he crawled off the bed where he had been napping. The Arthos live nine miles west of Dawn.

When Mrs. Artho found Daniel Gene, his head was caught between the footboard and springs of the bed. Nurses at Deaf Smith County Hospital in Hereford, where the child was taken, said his shirt button apparently was pushed into his larynx and shut off the supply of air.

Daniel Gene was born Oct. 30, 1954.

In addition to his parents, survivors include three brothers, Raymond, 7, Arnold, 4, and Edward, 3; a sister, Janice, 6; and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Artho of Dawn and Mr. and Mrs. John Irlbeck of Canyon.

Livestock Pests Can Be Controlled

COLLEGE STATION—Meat and milk production can be cut by insect pests which attack livestock during this time of the year, says C. F. Garner, assistant extension entomologist.

The worst insect offenders are hornflies, spinose ear ticks, and stable flies. Unless controlled, they will rob Texas meat and milk producers of several million dollars, warns Garner.

These pests can be controlled by pesticides applied as smears, dips or sprays. But, points out the entomologist, chemicals alone are not enough. Breeding centers, such as manure piles, strawstack bottoms and the like should be eliminated. All water outlets and pools of accumulated water should be drained and low places in the lots filled with soil.

Garner says DDT should not be used for lice, tick or fly control on cows producing milk for human consumption. Neither should this material be used for spraying the inside of dairy barns and buildings. He advises using only recommended insecticides for treating livestock and barns and urges care in mixing and applying the materials.

A good livestock pest control program depends on correct diagnosis and medication.

For complete details on the amount of pesticides to use, Garner suggests a visit with the local county agent. Ask him for a copy of L-256, Guide for Controlling External Parasites of Livestock and Poultry or write to the Agricultural Information Office, College Station, Texas, for a copy.

Mike Clancy had been working on New York harbor tugboats for 50 years when he fell overboard and was drowned. This brought about a very fine wake.

A friend of the widow asked her: "Did Mike leave you well fixed?"

"Shure, an' he did that. 'Tis 50,000 he's after leavin' me."

The friend rolled her eyes heavenward. "Tch! Tch! Tch!" she said. "Think of that. And him that couldn't read nor write."

"Yes," agreed the widow, shaking her head seriously, "nor swim."

Around the Town...

By DOVIE CHERRY

Have you heard the latest gossip? Mrs. you-know-who bought some paper teint the other day. She was going to put it in her home too! What's more I've heard that others are doing the same, right here in our own town, under the noses of neighbors, family and all.

NO, no, no, easy. I haven't decided to turn into a Louella Parsons. But all that is so. You probably wouldn't have heard this gossip unless you happened to be in Paris, and even then the Mrs. wouldn't have a thing to hide. Paper teint is French for wallpaper.

Nowadays, Mrs. you-know-who is doing the fashionable thing. Wallpaper, a mode of decorating almost forsaken for a period of years, is coming back into its own according to Raymond Raillard. During the last war, many painters and their sons went to war and fewer men learned the trade of paper hanging. Then painting became the thing. Anybody could use the new rubber type paint and do a presentable job. Not everybody could hang paper.

Also, Raymond says that the wallpaper industry had it made for so long and didn't push its sales, didn't advertise. Painting gained the lead in decorating and still holds it, at least right now in Canyon.

But as for Raymond and me, there's nothing like wallpaper for beautiful walls. (That's no sale talk on Raymond's part, he has wallpaper on all his home walls). What's more, wallpaper is good material now. You've probably noticed the murals of wallpaper. They are actually a non-shiny oil-cloth type material called Wall-Text that will wash and won't fade. There are plastic coated wallpapers that wash like magic. Or a plastic spray is available to put around doors and light fixtures to make paper scrub proof.

There are new ways to hang paper. Instead of lapping, hangers can fit or butt the ends of sheets together so that no line is visible. This makes many repaperings possible without being able to count each layer—as many as 100 paperings if it would hold the weight.

The wallpaper industry is big business. A decorator in Amarillo decorates $50,000 to $100,000 homes where he often puts murals of original—designed, hand-blocked wallpaper which costs from $1250 to $4000.

If YOU FAVOR

integration of children of both races, in all public schools, and if you feel that present laws against intermarriage of the races are adequate, and if you believe that states have no recourse against Supreme Court rulings,

YOU WILL LIKELY WANT TO VOTE AGAINST

- Number 1
☒ AGAINST MIXING WHITE AND NEGRO CHILDREN IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS: specific legislation exempting any child from compulsory attendance at integrated schools attended by white persons and negroes.

That's how wallpaper is. A person can buy a nice pattern, durable paper for as low as $1 a single roll or he can buy an even nicer single roll for, say $12.50 and up. And the patterns to choose from. One store I visited the other day had 150 different types plus sample after sample in books. It was interesting. Almost like visiting an art gallery.

There were samples of Continentals, Colonials, Heritages, English imports, Canadian imports... some with velvet-like embossed texture, some quilted texture, pebble texture... and, why it would take any color-loving, design loving man or woman at least a day to choose.

Something new is a decor-wall with a raised texture that looks like brick. Deceiving to the eyes, it takes a hand-test to tell the difference. What's more, it's fire-resistant, abrasive-resistant, washable and economical.

But you say, "I'll still take painting. Wallpaper costs too much." Raymond says that people inquire about wallpaper, hear the price and decide not to buy. He says some of them admit it has been 10 years since the last papering. If they paper again, let it go for another 10 years, it will cost them only, on the average, 85c a year.

Wallpapering has been with us a long time. If you are one of the many people with wallpaper on the walls of your home, you are using a mode of decoration begun by the Chinese in time immemorial.

The English claim to have first introduced wallpaper into Europe, although the French assert the first was at Rouen as early as 1620 or 1630 by a man named Francois, and that it was perfected in the 18th Century by Reveillon in Paris. As early as 1875, some of the Paris factories employed 3,000 or more workers.

In the United States, the first factory appeared in 1790 founded by John B. Howell at Albany, N. Y. Paper was only in small sheets and had to be joined before being printed. Color was applied by means of a brush to form the background. The design was printed by wooden blocks as many blocks as colors in the pattern. One block was printed the whole length of the paper before the next color was applied.

Fairly recently, there has been a revival of block printing. Raymond says the most expensive and finest prints are handblocked. Block printing is still used for design in such dimensions that do not fit the machines.

It does not appear that any other factories than the Howell factory were established until about 1810. The Howell firm sold out to Lemuel Steel, and he finally settled in Philadelphia, Pa., where the factory has been ever since.

But it was not until 1844 that the wallpaper industry started advancing. The innovations that blessed the industry were paper in continuous rolls, a machine from England for printing in one color which reduced the price and increased the business volume. In 1846 two machines printing six colors came from England.

Today's machine is greatly improved although principally the same. Designed similar to a cloth-printing machine, it has a large central drum or cylinder and the paper passes over the cylinder. The pattern is printed on the paper by means of rollers on which the design has been placed. Each roll is representative of one of the colors used in the design.

The paper is hung up by an automatic process and passes into drying racks. After the paper is dry, it is rolled up in lengths of 8 to 16 yards and is ready for market. Special machines are used for embossing, textures, bronzing, etc.

In a 1931 issue of Wallpaper Magazine, an article by Henry Burn, an industry notable, said, "... wallpaper was then regarded in the minds of many as an undesirable article with which to adorn their wall..." There's been a lot of progress made.

Would you pay $150 for a card 3 1/2 inches by 2 1/2 inches? A friend of mine did, and he hopes that the card will save him several $150.

This fellow went to a doctor complaining of pains in the stomach. Verdict—ulcers. And the first "remedy" the doctor gave him was a card which the doctor said would be the only thing that could really help.

This fellow put the card, dog-eared and smudged with fingerprints, where everyday he could see it. The heading reads, "How To Live To Be A Hundred Happily." Below are the rules:

1. Quit looking for a knock in your human motor.
2. Learn to like your work.
3. Get a hobby and follow it.
4. Learn to like people.
5. Be satisfied.
6. Accept adversity when it comes.

Mere et Pere Kettle, a la Cajun, Tromp Stage at Branding Iron Theatre

A "Ma and Pa Kettle" style comedy with a "Cajun" twist, "The Great Big Doorstep," made its last staging Friday night at the Branding Iron Theatre. The production, which opened Wednesday night, was the second and last of the summer theatre directed by Dr. and Mrs. M. Blair Hart of the University of Arkansas.

The comedy involved a family of seven with twin young'uns, a tiny shack almost on its last stand, and a great, big, wonderful doorstep fished out of the Missouri River which the family took as a symbol that in the near future things are going to get better. With hilarious trials and failures, the family all connived to get a farm down the road that wouldn't shake and tremble when all seven were home.

And get it they did, thanks to Mrs. Crochet who never stopped being ambitious and determined although her hopes soared and plunged from time to time, and no thanks to Commodore or papa, a lazy ditch-digger who with a last flair of pride calls himself a "drainage engineer."

The lead role of Mrs. Crochet was played by B.I.T. veteran Pat Starr Hall of Amarillo who last appeared in the spring production of "The Hasty Heart." Don Ham of Plains appeared as Commodore.

Arthur Crochet, young son played by Bill Cornette of Canyon, left his first and only piece of medical education, a cracked skull, and a sorrowing mother at home and found a job. Left at home to stick it out were Evvie, Carol Ray Richards of Canyon, Topal, Mary Scott of Canyon, Elna, Merle Dean Parker of Hartley, and Fleece, Janelle Mundy of Kress.

Also in the cast were Bill Smith of Amarillo, Tommie McDougal, Tom Monroe and Bill McDonald of Canyon, and Rebecca Rowntree of Canadian.

True, this was a "Ma and Pa Kettle" type of comedy, but it was not straight "pie in the face" fun. Not just contagious humor and a touch of fantasy teamed with reality; there was also a contrasting character display of easy-come-easy-go and fight hard and win. Clever punch lines made for a better comedy.

The sets, designed and built by Dr. Hart and his stagecraft workshop, were built with emphasis upon reality... riverboat reeds, cattails, orange trees with real fruit and a huge oak tree that was a fine example of stage craftsmanship.

In contrast to "The Whitehead Boy," first summer play, this production showed more polish perhaps due to the fact that a southern drawl is a lot easier than Irish dialect especially in the short practice time the summer theatre had from cast selection to opening night.

The Harts left soon after the conclusion of the run of "The Great Big Doorstep" to return to their home in Arkansas. We feel that they did an efficient and successful job as summer members of the WTSC speech faculty and feel that their educational approach to the summer theatre was excellent.—DC

The Eastland County oil field was developed by cable tools during the great boom. But since then the rotary method has been steadily gaining in general until it has become the predominant procedure in most fields. Cocky Yeager, an old-time driller in Eastland, predicted that the scenes which were almost the birthplace of the American oil industry will be the scenes where the hard-rock crews will make their last stand. He remarked:

"Back in 1924, I worked on a well in Logan County, W. Va. We had to build a road a mile long to the location. Even then, it was too steep for horses or mules, much less trucks, so we used oxen to bring in the materials and machinery. We had to blast out a place to set the boiler and, before we had reached a depth of 1,300 feet, we had no less than five fishing jobs because of the hard formation; and before we got down 1,800 feet, we wore out two new 10-inch bits, each seven feet long. But we got a well!"

"When I finally have to, that's where I'm going," his jaw chewing a mouthful of tobacco, rhythmically, — "and I'll bet you a trainload of Mail Pouch that no d— rotary ever tackles THAT country!"

The late M. G. Jackson of Eastland was known as "the man who debated Cyclone Davis." The cyclonic one, (father of the latter-day Cyclone Davis) was a Populist Congressman from East Texas and a tremendous speaker. When he invaded West Texas, in the palmy days of Populism, none of the Eastland lawyers wanted to meet him on the stump. Still, it would not do for the Democrats to permit him to speak, unopposed. So Jackson, a farmer, was selected.

The debate in Eastland was to be held in the afternoon. That morning, Jackson and several friends went to a neighboring town and heard Davis. Thus, the farmer had an opportunity to plan his remarks. Davis was somewhat taken aback when he found his adversary was not a lawyer or politician. Jackson had the sympathy of the crowd (most of them were farmers) and he did well. In fact, Cyclone praised him from the platform.

Ever after, Jackson was known as "the man who debated Cyclone Davis."

Beans, Peas, Onions, Corn . . .

Standing on the corner, watching all the corn come up . . . That sentence is corny enough all right, but in a sense that is exactly what the W. F. Bonds who live on the corner of Fifth Avenue and Twenty-Fourth Street have been doing. Their garden, one of the largest in town, produces enough to feed four families.

This season, Mrs. Bonds and her daughters have canned about 100 pints of produce—mostly beans and cucumbers—and there's more to come. Mrs. Bonds said that on the approximate area of three lots, she, her husband and daughters have planted beans—stringless, green pod, yellow wax and top-crop varieties—blackeyed peas, onions, popcorn, 22 rows of sweet corn, cucumbers, cashaw, watermelon, cantaloupe, peanuts, tomatoes, radishes, squash and okra.

Mrs. Bonds said they began planting in May and had spaced the planting times so that there would be at least a week between each canning. And canning does pay off for the Bonds family. Their gardens provide plenty of fresh vegetables through summer to the first frost, and enough to last through the winter.

They report relatively little trouble with bugs; a good spraying job took care of that. This is the third garden the Bonds have had at the present residence, and they have added little fertilizer. "It's funny, this is the worst soil, but it grows the best gardens," said Mr. Bonds. Approximately 29 years of experience could have something to do with that.

Well, did all of that news make your green thumb twitch? It's not too late to give that green thumb a chance to show what it knows, but the time is ripe to begin a fall garden.

Unfortunately for some people, they were born without a green thumb. But even for some who do have a Kelly-green page turner it takes a little bit of know-how to have a successful home garden. Land is the first problem. From one-third to one-half acre is recommended. (Folks in the city, don't faint. Sure, this is impossible for you in nearly all cases, but stay tuned in. A lot of this still applies to the patch out back. If possible select fertile, well-drained soil, free from disease organisms and away from large trees. If possible, locate the garden near the house for convenience in working and harvesting, and have a water supply available.

The W. F. Bond's garden on the corner of Fifth Avenue and Twenty-Fourth Street, one of the largest in town, covers an area of about three lots. Mrs. Bonds and her daughters have already canned about 100 pints of beans.

Next, make a planting plan to include a variety of leafy, root and fruit vegetables—a minimum of 10 to 12 different kinds. When selecting plants, consider the likes and dislikes of the family. In the planting plan, include a plan for planting a succession of season crops such as radishes, bush snap beans and sweet corn. Plan for varieties and amount of seed needed and know the planting date of each variety listed. The frost-free date is listed by counties in the Texas Almanac.

And then it's off to work we go with hoe, rake and spade. Oh, and don't forget the wheel hoe with attachments, the yardstick, two stakes and a ball of twine, a dibble or pointed stick (putty knife or trowel), a dust gun or sprayer, garden hose for irrigation and if you want to save many a blister and backache, get a power tractor and equipment.

And put these articles on your list: Seed of adapted varieties, fertilizers, insecticides, seed-treating materials for disease control and seed inoculant for legume.

Ready? Plow or spade the soil two or three weeks before planting. Thoroughly prepare the soil before planting and control weeds and grass when they are small. A soil analysis will tell how much commercial fertilizer is needed to maintain soil fertility. Use barnyard manure, compost or other organic matter to keep the physical structure of the soil in good condition and add some nutrients at the same time.

Now where to put what. Should the onions be between rows of corn and should the asparagus and rhubarb be planted with the beans? No. When making a planting arrangement, plan the tall crops together so they will not shade low-growing crops and plan to place permanent crops like asparagus and rhubarb on one side of the garden so they will be out of the way during cultivating.

If you are a carpenter, you can have the best tomatoes in town—sawdust is good for tomatoes and other plants to reduce the loss of moisture from the soil, hold the soil temperature down during the hot period of the day and depress the growth of weeds and grasses. Also good for mulch are straw, leaves and lawn clippings.

Now comes the catch. A garden needs about 1 inch of rainfall every seven to ten days, and when nature gets stingy, it's necessary to rely on the well or city water supply. A heavy watering every seven to ten days by sprinkling or furrow irrigation is best under average conditions.

A stitch in time . . . is certainly true when it comes to combatting insects. Before insects appear, not after, is the time to start the annual battle. All-purpose garden dust may be used. Mixtures containing only rotenone and/or prethrum may be used safely within one day of harvest. Mixtures containing methoxychlor plus either rotenone and/or prethrum may be used safely up until seven days of harvest. Vegetables dusted with insecticides must be washed thoroughly before they are used.

To fight plant disease, use a seed protectant. Semesan can be used on most vegetable seeds; spargon should be used on beans and peas that have been inoculated; and Semesan Bell may be used on Irish potatoes and sweet potatoes. For further protection, plant disease-resistant varieties when possible, rotate the garden site where possible and rotate the vegetable crops within the garden. Remove and destroy diseased plants within the garden.

When the garden has survived the bugs, disease, hail, and what-else, and when you have a coat of tan, maybe a few calluses, bulges in the arm instead of the waist, then is when comes the last task or joy, as you care to regard it—harvesting. Vegetables are at their peak of quality only a short period of time and should be harvested within this period for top quality. Mature vegetables must be removed from the plants for continued production, and to obtain the maximum quantity from the plant. Okra, green beans, peppers and cucumbers are good examples of vegetable crops that are greatly reduced in yield if mature fruit is not harvested.

It is impossible to outline plans to suit every garden as locations vary within the state. Generally an area of one-third to one-half acre supplies, if managed properly, fresh vegetables during season and a surplus for canning and freezing for a family of five. Below is a sample chart for planning for a family of five. The size of the garden is approximately one-half an acre if the rows are spaced 3 feet apart. Select varieties for your area of the state.

Florence Coffee Speaks of Trip

The Women's Society of Christian Service sponsored Family Night at the Methodist Church on July 18 with a large group present.

Florence Marie Coffee, recent graduate of Texas University, told about her experiences in Brazil during the summer of 1955.

She was a member of an interdenominational Work Camp, the first to be held in South America. The members were students from the United States and Brazil. A short training period was held at Rio de Janeiro.

The workers were then divided, some staying to work there and another of which Florence was a member going to Recife. They built walls for a new church, mixing cement and laying the floor. She illustrated her talk with slides showing various contrasts in Brazil. She challenged both young and adults as she told of her experiences to seek a better understanding of their world neighbors.
